OUR LADY OF THE BLESSED SACRAMENT PARISH

Whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and the one who humbles himself will be exalted —Luke 18:14

Thirtieth Sunday in Ordinary Time | October 23, 2022

Under Mary's mantle, and with the guidance of the Holy Trinity, Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament seeks to share God's love by celebrating the sacraments, proclaiming the gospel, and serving the needs of all His children.

No other evangelist captures the tang of Jesus' parables better than Luke. This Sunday we have one of his best—the story of the pharisee and the tax collector—addressed, as the Gospel notes, “to those who were convinced of their own righteousness and despised everyone else.”

Who could forget the scene? The pharisee standing in the temple and, as Jesus wryly notes, “praying to himself.” He thanks God that he is “not like the rest of humanity—greedy, dishonest, adulterous—or even like this tax collector.”

Meanwhile the tax collector—not one popular with anyone in first-century Israel—stood at a distance “and would not even raise his eyes to heaven,” but prays earnestly, “O God, be merciful to me a sinner.”

Whenever I hear this parable I think of one of our former employees at Catholic Theological Union. One of the best experiences I had as an administrator was to get to know the men and women who kept the place running: maintenance folks, food service employees, the people who cleaned the offices and public spaces after hours.

One person I got to know well was “Jim,” a skilled carpenter, electrician and all-around craftsman. Despite his many skills and winsome personality, Jim's life was very difficult. He had a broken marriage, repeated bouts with alcoholism, was often out of work and was desperate to connect with his only son but was having little luck doing so. Jim and I had a lot of long talks over the years and I grew to appreciate him very much.

He told me he always gave something to anyone begging on the street. “It would only take a nudge and I would be there myself,” he told me.

There came a time when a retired member of our staff passed away and I was invited to say his funeral Mass. The man had no family and few friends, so most of the congregation were members of CTU. When I entered the large and mostly empty church for the funeral, I spotted Jim sitting in the back pew. Jim was not an ardent churchgoer, but he knew this older colleague and had come to pay his respects.

“Come on up to the front,” I said to Jim, “there is plenty of room.” “Oh no,” he said. “Remember Jesus' story about the guy who was up front and very proud of himself, while the other guy was hiding in the back, asking God for forgiveness? That's me,” Jim said, “I'm the guy in the back.”

The readings today affirm one of the basic perspectives of our Scriptures. “The Lord is not deaf to the wail of the orphan nor to the widow when she pours out her complaint,” as the beautiful first reading from Sirach proclaims. The response from Psalm 34 picks up the same refrain: “The Lord hears the cry of the poor”; “The Lord is close to the brokenhearted and those who are crushed in spirit he saves.”

Jesus' parable of the pharisee and the tax collector stands in this beautiful tradition that portrays God as especially compassionate and forgiving for those in desperate need. “The prayer of the lowly pierces the clouds; it does not rest till it reaches its goal.”

Jesus, who was steeped in the Scriptures, not only knew this text of Sirach but embodied it. Time and again, the Gospels portray Jesus reaching out with compassion and understanding to the very people that others despised. In the arrogant words of the character in Jesus' parable, these are the “rest of humanity.” Today's Scriptures tell us the follower of Jesus is not to despise anyone, even abject failures, but should reach out in compassion, respect and tender care.

By the way, there is a finale to Jim's story. The week after the funeral, a friend of his gave him a ticket to a Bears and Packers game. Jim told me it was “the happiest day of my life.” Only a week after that, Jim himself passed away in his sleep from a massive heart attack. I suspect now he is sitting up front in God's house.

Spiritual Care Week/Pastoral Care Week has been celebrated annually in October since 1985. This year we celebrate Spiritual Care Week from October 23rd to 29th with the theme "Relevant and Responsive in Times of Crises." This week gives us an opportunity to recognize the spiritual caregivers in our midst and the ministry which these caregivers provide. Spiritual caregivers are responsive and relevant every day, everywhere, and in every way!

The chaplains at ASCENSION/ABMC become more aware and grateful to those who partner with them in providing spiritual support such as the chaplains who pray with each patient and the Prayer Blanket/Shawl Ministers who bestow on recipients of a prayer gift. Notably, the ministers from your parish, Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament, graciously offer their time, talent, and compassionate caring to many who need healing.

Such parish ministers are to be celebrated especially during Spiritual Care Week. Many of the recipients, family members and chaplains become more mindful of these ministers' generosity, creativity, and service to the community. We at Ascension/Alexian Brothers in Elk Grove Village also become more aware that one's intentions and actions have a ripple effect for those who have received a prayer blanket/shawl in both times of suffering and celebration. Therefore, we at ASCENSION/ABMC continue to be grateful for your parish, Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament and the strength, sacredness, hope and comfort that you bring through your Prayer Blanket/Shawl Ministry to Ascension/Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

Thank You, Diane T., Theresa S., Gail C., Mary A., Mary Ann C., Marge M., Marianne I., Geri S., Judi E., Rosemary B., Terri B., Anna Marie F., Maddie H., Liz B., Doreen R., Kris A., Eileen P. and others!

Again, many BLESSINGS to all of YOU,
Phyllis Harman, Ascension/ABMC Chaplain

CATHOLIC CHARITIES WORKS TO PREVENT HOMELESSNESS

It might seem like common sense: Giving money to people on the brink of becoming homeless, and they are less likely to use homeless shelters.

But that glosses over other questions, including whether it would better to save limited anti-homelessness funding for people who already are homeless, who are certain to need help, instead of spending it for people who might be able to stay in their homes if they manage to find other resources.

That was one of the questions that the University of Notre Dame's Lab for Economic Opportunities explored in a 2016 research project undertaken in partnership with Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Chicago's Homelessness Prevention Call Center.

The study was highlighted in a video aired Oct. 17 during halftime of the Notre Dame football game against the University of Louisville.

It found that people who received money to help them stay in their homes were 88% less likely to be homeless after three months and 76% less likely to be homeless after six months, and that it cost about half as much to keep a family in its home than it did to house a family after it became homeless, according to the LEO website. Those who received money were also less likely to commit violent crimes.

"The research showed that at several data points that they didn't end up in the homeless system, they didn't end up in the criminal justice system, or if they did, it was at much lower rates," said Bob Haennicke, associate vice president of Catholic Charities. "That helps get people interested in maybe funding it."

Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Chicago is mounting another study, this one to find out if a financial boost over and above the homelessness prevention funds helps put families on the path to stability.
