Perhaps the best way to learn to pray is by following the example of Jesus. The Our Father guides readers through the prayer Jesus taught us, and asks us to consider important questions as we learn to pray: What are we asking for? • What are we committing ourselves to? • What does the Our Father teach us about prayer?

PASTOR'S CORNER

There are 26 unique stories of Jesus healing someone in the Gospels. Some of the stories are repeated in different Gospels, so if you add all of them together it comes out to 48. There's nothing special about these numbers, except to remind us that when we hear the story of Jesus we cannot escape the fact that physical healing is a frequent aspect of His ministry. It's just as clear, however, that physical healings are not the main aspect of His ministry. After the whole town of Capernaum was looking for Him to continue healing the sick and driving out demons, He left them to preach elsewhere. (Mark 1:37) When He returns, the town again crowds the place where Jesus is preaching. A group of four men lower their paralyzed friend down through the roof. What Jesus says to him first is, "Child, your sins are forgiven." (Mark 2:5) Only after the scribes question this in their hearts does Jesus tell the man "Rise, pick up your mat, and go home." (Mark 2:11)

The first and most important healing that Jesus desires for us is healing from our sins. When we speak about healing as part of our focus for this pastoral year at Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament Parish, this is the primary healing we want for ourselves and others to experience. What are the things that stand in the way of a good and healthy relationship with God, with others, with ourselves? What are our stumbling blocks to forgiveness and restoration? God's grace can and does remove these from our hearts and from our lives. We can be healed, we can have a renewed life—if we want it.
